GUARDING AGAINST FIRE IN SCHOOLS. VERDICT OF THE CORONER'S JURY IN REGARD TO THE FOURTH-ST. DISASTER.

THE FOURTH-ST. DISASTER.

The inquiry into the causes of the Fourth Street Echool disaster on February 20 was concluded yesterday by Coroner Levy. Deputy Coroner Donlin first read the testimony of the parents and relatives of the dead children and the result of his autopsies, assigning asphyxia as the cause of death, except in two cases where internal injuries produced death within two days. Coroner Levy then charged the jury, urging the necessity of making all schools places where pupils "could pursue their studies without constant fear of death." All facilities for rapid and safe exit should be provided, and no conrabid and safe exit should be provided, and no conrabid and safe exit should be provided, and no considerations of space should interfere with this. The coroner expressed his thanks to Captain McCullagh, home who rendered efficient service at the time of the disaster. The jury retired at 4 o'clock. They deliverated for four and a half hours, and at 8:30 gave-he following verdict, through the foreman, Leo Selessinger:

That Othe 20th day of February, 1883, shortly after 3 o'clock me in the school-building Nos. 188 to 202

delicerated for four and a nair nours, and gave he following verdict, through the foreman, Leo Selessinger:

That on the 20th day of February, 1883, shortly after 3 o'clock n, m., in the school-building Nos. 198 to 202 East Fourts, t., a fire was discovered in a wooden closet under the Sairway on the second story, on the easterly side of the unding, which closet was occasionally used for the bidling, which closet was occasionally used for the class-come. The smoke, penetrating the adjoining class-room, caused an alarm of fire, creating a panicamong the calidren which the teachers were unable unly to control. A large number of children escaped from the class-room, rushed to and blocked the stairway leading from the second to the first story on the westerly side of the bailding. The pressure on the stairway being very savent, some children fell at the foot of the stairs and the Others on the top of them, causing a jam on the stairs. The stair casing gave way, breaking off about ten feet from the middle of the stairway through which the crowd of children fell. On being extricaired and removed fourteen of the children were found to have been suffocated and two others were in a dying condition.

We further find that in our appulou the building where the disaster occurred is insufficient to accommodate 700 children, which was the average attendance in that school, and that the stairway of said building should be provided with handrails on both side. Further, that the feeding of stoves in school-houses and the removal of ashes and sweepings should be done by some reliable person especially appointed for the purpose and put in fire-proof receptacles, and immediately removed to some place of safety.

We recommend that frequent and systematic alarm exercises should

An exciting scene occurred on the ferry-boat Castleton, on the half-past 6 o'clock trip to Staten Island, on Monday evening. Captain Christopher Jones, an oyster dealer at Mariner's Harbor, and Joseph Mercereau, a resident of Port Richmond, got into a dispute. The disputants were on the main deck, and passengers in the upper saloon, hearing the noise, came down stairs. Captain Jones slapped Mr. Mercereau in the face and they clinched. The deck-hands separated the two men, when Mercereau drew a five-chambered revolver and discharged all the chambers. He first fired three shots at Captain Jones, but although the men were only a few feet apart, failed to hit him. The deck-hands then seized Mercereau and threw him down on the deck, when he tired two more shots, one of which took effect in the leg of Captain Thomas Morgan, a passenger. Captain Jones was not armed.

During the shooting great excitement prevailed. Men dodged behind barrels and boxes and the women kept screaming. The boat reached Staten Island scen after the shooting. Mercereau was arrested and lodged in the police station at West Brighton. Dr. Walser attended Captain Morgan, and pronounced his injury a severe flesh wound, but not dangerous. Mercereau was arraigned yesterday before Justice Powers, on complaint of Captain Jones. He was held in $1,000 bail for trial.

REGISTER'S OFFICE NOTES.

Instruments were recorded in the Register's office yesterday showing that after placing a mortgage on it for $110,000 Moss S. Phillips transferred the property on the north side of Exchange-alley, running from Broadway to Exchange-place, to Joseph M. Emanuel for $350,000. Mr. Emanuel in ture conveyed it to Moses Lazarus, the consideration being the same as that for which he acquired it. Another deed showed the conveyance by Mr. Lazarus to Joseph A. Dunn of property with fifty feet front on Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh sts., seventy-five feet east of Madison-ave. This real estate is transferred for $300,000, and the purchaser mortgaged it to the New-York Life Insurance Company for a loan on three years' credit of $185,000.

A quit-claim deed to the Central Park, North and East River Railroad Company was placed on record yesterday of property at the southwest corner of Tenth-ave, and Fifty-fourth-st. It was executed by Hopper S. Mott and others. A clear title to thirty-four lots of land in the Twenty-second Ward was also given by the document.

LAST DAYS OF McGLOIN AND MAJONE.

McGloin and Majone, the condemned murderers in the Tombs, are convinced that there is no chance left of a commutation of their sentences, and they seemed to recognize yesterday the hopelessness of their situation. They expressed a desire that no visitors but their relations and counsel should be admitted to see them. McGloin was visited by his little brother and sister, his aunt and his brother-in-law, and there was an affecting seene during the time that they were with him. Majone received a visit from his counsel. He is more light hearted than the other, but both men are now affected with melancholy and devote themselves seriously to their religious duties. Father Duranquet and two Sisters of Mercy were with them during the day, offering counsel and consolation. The three relays of four deputies each maintained the death watch throughout the twenty-four hours. The counsel for McGloin has gone to Albany to urge upon the Governor the necessity of a respite for his client, but it is not thought possible that he will succeed. A mass will be celebrated in the prison chapel on Thursday and another on Friday morning, when LAST DAYS OF McGLOIN AND MAJONE.

QUARRELS OF THE EMIGRATION BOARD. PLENTY OF MONEY FOR THE COMMISSIONERS—THE CASTLE GARDEN PRIVILEGES TO BE SOLD.

At the special meeting of the Commissioners of Emigration yesterday, many questions were raised as to the good faith in which certain resolutions were offered. President Hurlbut frequently interposed a reminder that there was a strong probability of the present Commission being legislated out of office. At one time Commission being legislated out of office, at one time Commission being legislated out of office, at one time Commission being legislated out of office, at one time Commission being legislated out of office, at one time Commission being legislated out of office, and Idefythe Legislature, the press or anybody else to impuga our motives."

This Commission is perfectly able to take care of its own affairs. To permit the Biglins and O'Briens and the McLaughlins to represent us is a taint on the Commission is perfectly able to take care of its own affairs. To permit the Biglins and O'Briens and the McLaughlins to represent us is a taint on the Commission that we don't care for."

A motion made, to appoint Dr. Oswald Joerg of Germany, physician-in-chief at Ward's Island, was voted down because he is not an American citizen. Dr. J. S. Thatcher was then recommended but was not accepted. Mr. Saundets wrote that the Controller had decided to pay all the requisitions of the Board for the $110,000 unexpended balance of the State appropriation without further question. Commissioner Stephenson sand that the motion was out of order, as there was no vacancy. Mr. Ulrich made an effort to withdraw his motion and a long discussion followed. REGISTER DOCHARTY IN A STATE OF MIND.

A squad of from ten to fifteen men, each carrying a cigar-box under bis arm, has entered the Register's office at the hour of opening every morning for some weeks. The recording clerks and other attaches of the office soon dubbed this little band "the Salvation Army." Upon its arrival each morning the squad mads an onslanght upon the books in which the real estate records are written, each member taking one of them and dotting down extracts from it on slips of paper. Register Docharty understood the mission of the invaders from the first, and has viewed them with increasing alarm. They represented the New-York Title Company, the articles of incorporation of which were filed with the County Clerk early last month. The object of the concern is to duplicate the official records and put them in less complicated form than they are at the Register's office, and then to do the work of searching titles more promptly and at much cheaper rates than are at present charged for official searches.

The Register, whose profits the company menaces, npon several occasions has objected to the size of the invading force, but without effect. His claim was that the members of it monopolized certain desks to the exclusion of others. Yesterday Mr. Docharty made a determined effort to prevent the agents of the company from copying the records. On Monday evening he ordered all his recording clerks to report for duty before 9 a.m. About twenty of them appeared at the appointed time and were given slips of paper and instructed to take possession of the desks usually occupied by the title company's agents. The latter when they arrived, however, went to work wherever they could find desk room. The recording clerks, when spoken to, pretended that they represented another title company, but their principal duty seemed to be to obstruct the title company's agents as much as possible. When one of the latter took down a book of record, one of the clerks discovered that he required that particular book and

THE CASE OF MRS. WEHRMANN.

THE CASE OF MRS. WEHRMANN.

The examination of Mrs. Annie Wehrmann, who was arraigned in the Yorkville Police Court on Monday on the charge of keeping a disorderly house at No. 166 East Twenty-eighth-st. was continued yesterday. Jacob Konigatein, a married man whose wife lives at Vienna, testified that he visited the house of Mrs. Wehrmann, in company with a woman of bad reputation, on March 2. A friend of his, whose name he did not give, went to the house with another woman at the same time. After stating that he had taken down the number of the house before entering, as a matter of precaution, he said that he had been in other houses of like character since his arrival in this city several weeks ago. When cross-examined by Mr. Levy, Konigstein was wholly unable to describe the interior of the house. Charles Lott, a special policeman, testified that he had been detailed by Captain Ryan to watch that he had been detailed by Captain Ryan to watch that he had been detailed by Captain Ryan to watch that he had seen Konigstein and his companious descend the steps. Knowing the women, he had crossed over and inquired of Konigstein to the purpose of his visit to the house. On being informed by him, Officer Lott took Konigstein to the police station, where he told Captain Ryan his story.

Lott took Konigstein to the police station, where told Captain Ryan his story.

Patrolman Richard Cahill, upon whose affidavit Mrs. Wehrmann had been arrested, stated that he had seen persons of had reputation enter the house. It appeared from the cross-examination which followed that Cahill, after being driven from the house of Mrs. Shaw, at No. 116 East Twenty-eighthest, because he had not paid his board, had procured her arrest on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. She was acquitted of the charge. The case was then adjourned until Thursday at 2 o'clock.

A MADMAN AT HIS MOTHER'S GRAVE.

There was a painful scene at the funeral of Mrs. Susan Kip in Passaic, N. J., on Monday. Mrs. Kip was the widow of Nicholas I. Kip, and formerly lived in Passaic, but afterward removed to this city, where she died. Her body was removed to Passaic on Monday. Among the mourners was William Kip, her son, who became crazed on account of his mother's death and acted violently. He demanded to see his mother's corpse, and at the A MADMAN AT HIS MOTHER'S GRAVE.

A FINE EXHIBITION OF FLOWERS.

MONTHLY MEETING OF THE HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.

The air in the hall of the New-York Horticultural Society was redolent yesterday afternoon with messages of Spring, and on the large tables running lengthwise of the hall was a fine collection of cut flowers and flowering plants. It was the regular monthly meeting of the society, and the members, as well as other lovers of flowers crowded the hall all the afternoon, and were enthusiastic in their expression of admiration at the extent and beauty of the exhibition. It was stated with various degrees of emphasis that such a group of roses in pots and cut flowers, hybrid perpetuals, had never been seen before in a meeting of the society. Among the admired specimens of tea roses were the Corne.ia Cook, Catharine Mermet, Souvenir d'un Ami, and Niphetos; among the hybrid perpetuals, Magna Charta, General Jacquemins, Xavier Olibo, Anna de Diesbach, Baroness Rothschild, Mabel Morrison, Jules Margottin, Captain Christy and Duchess de Vallambrosa. W. A. Burgess, of Glen Cyve, showed magnificent specimens of Maréchal Niels. There were shown sixty-two varieties of forced tilacs by John Henderson, of Flushing; an ucusually fine collection of cinerarias by Alford Smith, of Orange, fine hyacuths, fragrant spikes of mignouette, glowing tulips and a brilliant tree peony of an unusually bright and red color. Mr. Killar, of Bay Ridgs, exhibited some beautiful azaleas in pots. A novelty in the group of orchids was a new variety, the Pheisnopsis Stuartiana, of which the first flowering specimen ever seen in this country was shown. It was brought in flower from England and is a native of the East Indie. The blossom is about two inches in diameter and shaped like the others of the Pheisnopsis type. The petals are enamel white; the labellum and corolla are white deeply spotted with chocolate brown. Woolson & Co., Passaic, had a small but choice selection of violets and various spring buils in pots.

At the close of the meeting John Thorpe read a type of the

THE CLAIMS ON THE CASINO. THE CLAIMS ON THE CASINO.

The correctness of the statements concerning the financial condition of the Casina Company made by a few dissatisfied stockholders in Wall-st. is emphatically denied by the manager, Mr. Aronson, and by others. They say it is not true that mechanics' liens to the amount of $90,000 have been laid on the property. The total of the mechanics' claims is only $50,000 and the justice of these is in dispute. It would not require $100,000 to complete the building, but only $28,000 at most, and perhaps not more than $22,000.

Rejoicing of the Rejuvenated.

A mother-in-law out at Pike's Peak With sore throat could scarcely speak, St. Jacobs Oil cured her, And those who endured her Said she talked right along for a week.

A fighting editor out in Seattle, Was badly cut up in a battle; He's again in repairs, And emphatically awears, "St. Jacobs Oil makes pain skedaddle."

A rheumatic old man named Meeker, He there would have died, But St. Jacobs Oil tried, It sent him back cured to Osweeger.

By Coney Island sea-girt roar, A drowning man was cast schore. Each stiffened limb Looked stark and grim.

A lame Chinaman on the Pacific, Of pains and aches was prolific, He limped all around, Until he had found St. Jacobs Oil, the great specific.

Good day to you, Mistress O'Broine An' how is the pain in your spoine! Och, 4tvil a bit

Said the Governor of North Carolina For all pain we endure Bt. Jacobs Oil is the cure, In the world there is nothing finer.

A cooper who lives in Des Moines Pressed hard on a hoop where it joins, The hoop it flew back And bit him a whack. But St. Jacobs Oil cured his loins

Said a wise old doctor at Nordhoff, St. Jacobs Oti is very much bought of; It's kept for the sake Of each pain and ache That any one ever has thought of.

Great cake from little acorns spring, But for every corn

A lightning rod man in St. Paul, From a house had a serious fall, Though battered and bruised, He said, when he used St. Jacobs Oil—"It simply beats all."

lame old lady at Keyser Had no one to advise he Till Doctor John Boyle Tried St Jacobs Oil; A love-sick youth in Beffevue Hugged his girl black and blue,

St. Jacobs Oil prescription Cured her of the camption. And this little story is true Down where the climate is torrid, The sting of a hornet is horrid; It strikes with surprise Betwixt the two eyes; St. Jacobs Oil cures the sore forehead. It disabled his arm, But then like a charm, St. Jacobs Oil cured up the swelling.

A Denver man hunting wild geese, Stood in water way up to his knees, He became very lame, But was cured all the same, For St. Jacobs Oil is "just the cheese."
